Pastor's Notes

Be doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding yourselves.

James 1:22

What is being done in Chicago to hold church leaders accountable? How do I know that the cover-up revealed in the Pennsylvania grand jury report is not occurring here? As I considered these questions from a younger adult, I realized that the Chicago story of clergy sexual abuse and the Chicago response since 1992, which many of us older adults painfully remember, is unknown to younger generations. Today I will try to share some of the story of what the Archdiocese of Chicago has been doing since 1992 to provide safe environments for children and youth.

In the early 1990s, the psychological community announced that it no longer could support its recommendation that treatment and careful follow up could ensure that someone who had abused a minor would not do so again. Until this point, most church officials responded to clergy sexual abuse as they did to priests with alcoholism: treatment, ongoing therapy, and supervision. Names of accused priests were not revealed. Victims-survivors who spoke up were given financial settlements in exchange for signing confidentiality agreements. Families and other parishioners who spoke up were told to trust that the matter was being handled; priests who spoke up were often moved to “out of the way” assignments. Those abused and those who spoke up were silenced; the accused priest remained in good standing, able to abuse other minors.

In 1992, Cardinal Bernardin, then Archbishop of Chicago, instituted new policies and procedures based on the revised recommendation of psychological professionals. He released the names of all priests in active ministry with a known history of child sexual abuse and recommend new policies and procedures to protect minors and to respond to allegations of abuse by clergy. In the second part of his August 17 letter (included elsewhere in this bulletin) Cardinal Cupich details the practices implemented in Chicago in 1992, which were refined after the 2006 Dallas Charter. Over 60 Chicago priests have been removed from ministry over the past 26 years because a credible allegation of abuse surfaced; most have been laicized, and none are in ministry today. The most current list (dated 6/20/2018) can be found via protect.archchicago.org. Follow the links for Making a Report/Sexual Misconduct Reports. The same website provides information on how the Archdiocese of Chicago handles reports of sexual abuse; how to report abuse; the support available to victims-survivors; and current requirements for all clergy, all Archdiocesan employees, and all volunteers who work with children and youth. Three offices that direct and maintain archdiocesan compliance have developed from the policies and procedures first implemented in Chicago in 1992.

As Cardinal Cupich admits, no set of procedures is perfect. Chicago bishops, pastors, principals, and others sometimes have been slow to act when faced with an allegation against someone they want to believe is incapable of what is being alleged. Chicago has been blessed with three archbishops who have advocated for the policies and procedures to safeguard children and youth and acknowledged when these policies failed or needed further revision. This includes an incident in which Cardinal George needed to revise the procedures because a gap in the system allowed him to delay reporting an allegation to civil authorities because of his personal doubts in its veracity. Survivor advocacy groups and the media also have played a critical role in keeping church officials honest.

But this is not enough. This archdiocese took the lead in 1992 and did what the bishops of western Pennsylvania did not do until forced by a grand jury report. The church must develop systems and safeguards that hold bishops accountable and that define penalties when they are not. Our history shows that we cannot blindly rely on systems or church officials to always do the right thing. I am committed to ensuring that, in our parish and school, all clergy, employees, and parish volunteers with youth will know what a safe environment requires; can recognize the warning signs of abuse before it occurs; and will speak out, loudly and publicly, should a pastor, principal, bishop, or anyone else try to cover up or minimize an allegation of sexual abuse. I have spoken out, and will continue to do so, when I think that our Archdiocese is not doing all that it can to protect our children and youth. But I am only one voice; and I could be slow to act in a moment of weakness. We all must take responsibility for the reform of our church. “Trust but verify” must become our approach in demanding accountability from our leaders and institutional structures. “We must be doers of the word and not hearers only.” I welcome your thoughts on how the church can do better. I hope that last Thursday’s gathering becomes part of an ongoing conversation. What do you need to know? What must the institutional church and our leaders do to rebuild your trust? What can the parish do, for you or with you, as we move through the latest painful experience of bishops failing to protect children. Among you, the people of the church, is the wisdom and experience to re-form the church of Christ. Only then will our mission thrive.

J. Bill

Blessing of our Unity Garden

Please join us after all the Masses next weekend September 8 and 9
for a blessing of our new paver area!

Please Help Spread the Word... to those who might want to become Catholic, or complete their sacraments

In the fall, St. Francis Xavier & St. John of the Cross will start a new round of our collaborative RCIA Process. RCIA—The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults—is the process of spiritual and educational formation through which adults become fully initiated members of the Roman Catholic Church. We are asking for your help identifying and personally inviting anyone who might be considering becoming Catholic. They could be unbaptized, or baptized Christians who want to accept the Catholic faith. RCIA is also designed for Catholics who did not yet receive the sacraments of Eucharist and Confirmation.

The number one reason women and men join the RCIA process is that someone they trust invited them to consider it. Please give it some thought. Additional details can be found on the parish website: www.sfxlg.org, under Parish/Sacramental Preparation, or contact Kate DeVries at kdevries@sfxlg.org or 708-352-0168.

Why say "Yes!" to RCIA?

Last Easter, 3 adults were Baptized Catholic, and received the sacraments of First Holy Communion and Confirmation. An additional 5 adults, already baptized Christians, were welcomed into Full Communion in the Catholic Church. Here are some thoughts from past participants.

"Going through the RCIA journey has not only strengthened my relationship with God and deepened my understanding about the rich traditions of the Catholic Church, but it has also offered a sense of community and fellowship that I didn't know I was lacking. This experience has had a profoundly positive impact on me, and I would strongly encourage anyone considering RCIA to reach out and speak with a team member to find more information!" --Andrea Dekoj, 2017-18

"The RCIA Program at SFX was exceptional! It's all about how God is in your life and what you do with it. RCIA and SFX helped me feel God's love. My RCIA team and the people of SFX do a great job spreading love, caring and generosity throughout the experience. I was proud to be a part of it!" -- Scott Schram, RCIA Participant, 2016-17

Taizé Prayer

and
Grace Lutheran

All are invited to our
Taizé Evening Prayer
Friday, September 14
7:30 pm
St. Francis Xavier

Taizé Prayer is contemplative and most importantly communal, combining simple repetitive melodies that are sung by all, prayerful silence, scripture reading and intercessory prayer. This prayer can promote a kind of inner unity of person, allowing the spirit to be more open and attentive to what is essential. It is our hope that you will join us, especially at this time when our world is much in need of prayer.

Letter From Cardinal Cupich

Last week we printed sections of the August 17 letter of Cardinal Cupich in which he expressed his feelings in response to the Pennsylvania grand jury report, issued on August 14. The following excerpt focuses on what the church in the United States and in Chicago has been doing to ensure the safety of children and youth. The Cardinal's full letter can be found at www.archchicago.org.

What are we bishops doing now to ensure that those failures are not repeated? ...USCCB President Cardinal Daniel DiNardo announced on behalf of all the bishops that our conference will launch a thorough investigation of the allegations against Archbishop McCarrick; that it will establish new ways in which people can report complaints against bishops; and that it will advocate for more effective resolution of such allegations. ...

The bishops will also update our 2002 "Statement of Episcopal Commitment" by which the bishops pledged to follow a procedure for reporting allegations of sexual abuse of minors by a bishop. ...

As Cardinal DiNardo explained, all this will be conducted with "proper independence, sufficient authority, and substantial leadership by laity." This call for lay oversight of the investigation, as much as the scandal itself, shows the need for systematic change in the way we order church life. As Pope Francis has urged, we need to remember that it is our baptism that unites us. We as a church must reflect more deeply on what we share in common, rather than what distinguishes us.

...following the 2002 wave of scandals, the USCCB adopted policies designed to protect young people from abusers. We instituted a zero-tolerance policy which holds that even one instance of child sexual abuse would bar someone from the priesthood forever. The Archdiocese of Chicago has implemented these policies and even done more.

1. We established an independent lay-majority review board to consider allegations against clergy and make recommendations to the bishops.
2. We refer all allegations of abuse to civil authorities.
3. We require diocesan employees and volunteers to undergo background checks.
4. We mandate that all diocesan employees and volunteers undergo safe-environment training to help them identify predatory behavior and understand avenues of reporting. And we required that children be taught how to recognize, resist, and report abuse.
5. We undergo an annual audit to measure compliance with these policies, which every year has found the Archdiocese of Chicago compliant.

Since 2002, hundreds of thousands of our people in dioceses across the United States have undergone safe-environment training. In many ways we can say that the policies of the Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People, which established procedures for addressing allegations of sexual abuse of minors by clergy, have been successful. According to the Pennsylvania grand jury report, for example, just two of the 300 priests named in the text were accused within the past decade, and both were reported to civil authorities. This excuses nothing, and we can never become complacent about our responsibility to protect children and adults from abuse and harassment, but it does say something about the effects of our post-2002 policies.

Here in the Archdiocese of Chicago, we have been following policies that were first established by Cardinal Bernardin in 1992, following revelations of clergy abuse that came to light during that period. In addition to what the Charter calls for, we offer payment for counseling or other assistance to anyone who comes to us with allegations even before attempting to establish the credibility of the claim. After any civil investigation has concluded, we conduct our own inquiry into allegations against priests, and our majority-lay review board considers the case and makes a recommendation to me about whether the accused should remain in ministry. One of the most important things Cardinal Bernardin did was to establish a regular meeting of everyone who might be called in to consider a case of sexual abuse, whether it involves a minor or an adult. So, to this day, representatives from across the relevant pastoral center offices regularly meet to advise me on cases that arise and ways to strengthen our commitments.

Of course, no set of procedures is perfect. As the grand jury report illustrates, they are subject to the strengths and weaknesses of those entrusted to carry them out. Closed systems always tend toward self-protection; it is only when we create systems of accountability that we let in purifying light. That's what our practices are designed to do. They exist because we as a church have a grave responsibility to ensure the safety of our people. That is why I encourage anyone who has been victimized to contact our Office of Protection of Children and youth at 800.994.6200 or www.protect.archchicago.org.

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Cardinal Blase Cupich
Archbishop of Chicago

Are You Registered As Parishioners? Do We Have A Record of Your Children?

We invite all to register as parishioners. If you are not receiving periodic mailings from the parish, you are not in our database. A registration form can be picked up at the back of the Church or printed out from our website, www.sfx-lg.org.

To help with our planning, we also ask that you let us know about your children, so that they can also be included in the database. Sometimes children are baptized elsewhere or families move into the parish after their children have been baptized. Consequently, we don't know about them until it is time to register for the Day School or for Religious Education. Again, the registration form is available at the back of the Church or on the website can be used for this purpose.

Thank you for helping us keep our information as up-to-date as possible!

Seasons of Hope

Bereavement Support Group

The loss of a loved one is a time of deep sorrow in life and our grief can be expressed in many ways. SEASONS OF HOPE is a faith-based, healing program for those who have suffered such a loss.

To begin healing does not mean forgetting—our loved ones will be remembered forever. We can however, deepen our spirituality and faith by reflecting and sharing while being guided toward a path of healing. Our hope will be strengthened in the sure knowledge that one day we will all be reunited with our loved ones.

Participants meet weekly in a small group that is guided by leaders who care and truly understand the depth of your sorrow as they too have experienced the loss of a loved one.

SEASONS OF HOPE is co-sponsored by St. Francis Xavier and St. John of the Cross. The upcoming fall season is at SJC. Call their parish to register at 708-246-4405 (The winter session will be here at SFX with details to be announced.)

Why Buy Fair Trade Coffee??

The coffee sold at St. Francis Xavier is purchased from Equal Exchange Fairly Traded. There is a lot behind this coffee. “We work closely with our farmer partners, year after year, to better understand each other’s needs. The result is a trusting relationship and delicious coffee.”

Beth Ann Caspersen, Quality Control Manager

Fair Trade builds right relationships between buyers and sellers that are rooted in the principles of human dignity and solidarity.

Fair Trade:

- Respects human dignity
- Promotes the common good
- Advances economic justice
- Empowers disadvantaged people
- Connects us with the people who create the things we buy
- Cultivates global solidarity

The Catholic Relief Services Fair Trade Program creates opportunities for us to bring these core values of our faith to bear on the choices we make as consumers—choices that have the power to lift our brothers and sisters out of poverty.

Effort is made to see that these coffee farmers are given a fair wage!!!

*Have you ever wished that you could have a
